

Lily sat boredly with Melissa and Emma as they watched Dusty and Jackson fight each other yet again for Melissa's affections.

"I wonder if they'll ever realize that I specifically pit them against each other because neither of their forms lends itself to taking any damage?", wondered Melissa.

Emma worriedly asked, "Are you sure that it's alright to treat them like this just for entertainment?"

"I don't really care whether or not its "okay" and regardless its their own fault for continuing to fall for it over and over again. Like, Seriously, a ghost versus a being of pure elements and one of them really thinks they'll be able to win? Honestly...", muttered Lily.

Melissa laughs, as they all continue to watch the futile efforts of the boys in their fight.
